Snyder had been stopping at the imperial for some time, when he grew suspicious that something in the line of legal proceedings was about to be sprung upon him. He fancied, however, that Sheriffs were after him.

Therefore, he moved away from the imperial and took apartments at the hotel to which he was traced by the inexorable process-server, and one papers were served.

Young Snyder was calmly nestling in slumber when the profusely buttoned beliboy and the process-server knocked at his door.

They had to thump vigorously on the panels to bring Snyder out of his soporific trance, and something like "——— what's all the row about?" was

COYLE THOUGHT TO BE INSAME.

An English Dwarf Committed for Inquiry Into His Sanity. In the Yorkville Police Court this morning Justice Hogan committed Joseph Coyle to the custody of the Charities Commissioners for examination as to his sanity.

Coyle, who is an English dwarf, scarcely four feet in height, was arrested by Police man Hogan, of the West Forty-seventh street squad, at an early hour this morning on Eighth avenue, near Forty-sixth street. Coyle, who has no home, was explaining to a crowd that he was Napoleon Bonaparte, and that he could not find any one to accept money from him as a gitt.
